Exploring Scripture with Midrash: with Sandy Eisenberg Sasso

Location: First United Methodist Church
Corner of Stover & Elizabeth Streets
Fort Collins, CO 80524
(970) 482-2436
www.fcfumc.net

1:30–3:00 PM—Free—Open to the Public

In her book God's Echo, Rabbi Sasso says “Midrash is both a product—a body of literature written over a period of time, and a process—a way of interpreting sacred text that continues to the present day.”

Together with Reverend Charles Schuster from First United Methodist Church and Rabbi Shoshana Leis from Congregation Har Shalom, Rabbi Sasso will show us how we can read scripture in ways that deeply nurture the development of our own spiritual lives.

Children have big questions—how will you respond?

All too often, the frantic busyness of our lives leaves us with little energy for nurturing our spiritual lives or the spiritual lives of our children or grandchildren.

In response to this cultural crisis, nationally-acclaimed children's book author and Rabbi Sandy Eisenberg Sasso gives us tools for answering children's big questions about God and life in books such as God's Paintbrush, In God's Name, Butterflies Under Our Hats, and For Heaven's Sake.

Serving as rabbi of Congregation Beth-El Zedeck, Indianapolis since 1977, Sandy Eisenberg Sasso was the first woman ordained from the Reconstructionist Rabbinical College in 1974. She and her husband Rabbi Dennis C. Sasso are the first practicing rabbinical couple in world history.
